SECOND COLD WAVE CAUSES OVER SCORE OF DEATHS

ROCKFORD MAN'S ARREST CAUSES OFFICIAL PROBE

Suspect Operation Of Big Still In Mendota Vicinity

Joe Markesi, aged 24, 835 Island avenue, Rockford, was arrested last Sunday afternoon on state highway route 70 in Reynolds township by Deputy Sheriff Stoddard Danekas and was brought to the county jail in Dixon. Markesi was driving a Lincoln sedan south on the route 70 paving at a 60 mile gate when he was halted by the deputy. While talking with Markesi, the deputy detected a strong odor of liquor and took his prisoner to the Howard Ackland farm home and telephoned to Sheriff Ward Miller.

The sheriff and two deputies went at once to Reynolds township and brought Markesi and his car to Dixon. Raymond King, 21, 519 Locust street, Rockford, who was a passenger in the car, was not held. Sheriff Miller secured a search warrant for the big car and upon examining its contents, it was found that there were 28 empty five gallon tin cans and other supplies. Markesi told the officers that he was to haul the empty cans a short distance south of Mendota in LaSalle county where he would meet a truck, unload his supplies and return to Rockford. When arrested, Markesi claimed to be the owner of the big car.

Not His Auto.
Arriving in Dixon, it was learned that the big sedan bore license plates issued for a Cadillac belonging to Giuseppe Ferraro of Rockford. A charge of operating an automobile with fictitious license plates was then placed against Markesi and his case continued until Tuesday morning. Justice Shauls fixing his bond at $100. Markesi was unable to furnish the amount last night and was detained in the county jail. A charge of speeding was to be placed against him by Deputy Danekas of Reynolds township today.

State's Attorney Mark Keller today was checking up certain statements which Markesi is said to have made at the county jail last evening. It was believed that his remarks led the Lee county officials to believe that a monster stilling plant operated by a Rockford liquor ring was located a short distance from Mendota and that Markesi was employed to haul supplies to and from the distillery over the route 70 paving to the east end of the county.

STATE SENATOR SHOT TO DEATH IN HIS THEATER

Revenge Thought To Be Motive Behind The Slaying

St. Louis, Mo., 2.—(UP)—State Senator Joseph Mogler was shot to death today as he entered a neighborhood moving picture theater he owns here.

Edward Phinny, custodian of the theater, told police two men participated in the shooting, one guarding him while the other lay in wait at the door for Mogler.

When police arrived they found the body guarded by a large black cat. Mogler was president of the Mogler Amusement Company and a vice president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America.

The fact that Saturday and Sunday receipts of the theater were not taken convinced police revenge rather than robbery was the motive. Mogler frequently acted as a professional bondsman.

MAIL PLANE IS FORCED DOWN ON FARM NEAR DIXON

The Accidental Loss Of Gasoline Is Cause Of A Mishap

One of the fleet of Boeing air Transport Company's cabin planes, Ralph Johnson, Omaha, pilot, was forced down about two miles south of Dixon late Saturday, when the supply of gasoline became exhausted and the pilot chose a small triangular field on the Eberly farm on which to land his plane. In effecting a landing, one of the struts on the landing gear snapped as the heavy cabin plant taxied across the field toward the state route 89 paving, spinning the plane around. The pilot remained at the controls and maneuvered the ship preventing its being turned over and probably destroyed together with its heavy cargo of west bound mail.

The plane was still standing in the field today awaiting a change in weather conditions which will permit mechanics to make the necessary repairs that it may be returned to Chicago. Two mechanics came to Dixon early Sunday morning with necessary repairs but found the wind and snow-swept open field the wrong place to work.

Gasoline Drained Away.
It was reported that a slight accident after taking off from the Chicago airport, resulted in the draining of the gasoline tanks after being in the air about an hour. Wearing a heavy pair of mittens, the pilot accidentally threw open the control governing the gasoline flow, and did not discover the condition until the engine began missing as he passed south of Nachusa.

He then discovered that his gasoline supply was exhausted and flying against a strong head wind, he was successful in bringing down the big plane without a crash.

Word was dispatched to the Boeing offices in Chicago at once and another plane sent out which landed at the Dixon airport. The west-bound mail matter was transferred to the emergency plane and continued on its way westward with only a short delay here. The pilot returned to Chicago by train. When weather conditions permit, the damaged strail will be replaced and the disabled plane flown back to Chicago.

ALLEGED TRAIN ROBBER IS HELD IN PAWNEE, OKLA.

Photographs are Identified By Victims Two Robberies

Pawnee, Okla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Tom Vernon, 43-years-old, erstwhile cowboy, rodeo rider and fireman, and five times a convict, awaited in jail here today the outcome of efforts to Wyoming and California to claim him for interrogation about the wrecking and robbing of two passenger trains.

Officers from both states declared that passengers of the Portland Limited of the Union Pacific derailed and robbed near Cheyenne, Wyo., last Monday night, and of the Pacific Coast Limited of the Southern Pacific Railroad, similarly derailed and plundered near Saugus, Cal. Nov. 10, had identified Vernon's photographs as those of the man who, single handed, lined them up, and took their money.

Approximate $400 was reported taken in California and $239 in Wyoming. It was Thomas J. Higgins, Deputy Sheriff of Los Angeles, who picked up Vernon's trail. Higgins had known Vernon for nearly a decade, during which Vernon was in and out of the California penitentiary at Folsom. Higgins said, "for larceny and other felonies."

Vernon offered no resistance to arrest. When Jones showed him the telegram which said he was wanted in Cheyenne, he declared only: "There is some mistake."

Voluntary Prisoner Puzzle To Sheriff

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Sheriff D. L. Dunbar of Christian county is faced with a perplexing problem.

He has a voluntary prisoner on his hands.

Ed. Hohrer completed a fifteen day sentence Saturday and left the jail. He was back a minute later clamoring to be returned to a cell.

"It's zero weather outside and I'd rather be in jail," he said. Dunbar took an optimistic look at the thermometer today but dolefully returned the cell keys to his pocket. "Guess Ed'll want to stick around some more and eat on the county," he said. "It's just as cold as Saturday and the weather man says it's getting colder."

LIFE IN CELL FOR KILLER OF HIS NEIGHBOR

Quarrel Over a Line Fence Resulted in Murder

Marion, Ill., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Convicted of killing Mrs. Gussie Howard as a result of a four-year controversy over a fence, Roscoe Kimmell, 35, farmer, today faced a life sentence in the state prison.

Kimmell was indicted separately for the alleged killing of Mrs. Howard's husband, Oscar, at the same time. The farmer also was alleged to have shot the Howard's 14-year-old son Lloyd, in the back as he ran from the scene.

The jury returned the guilty verdict on the first ballot and then deliberated nearly five hours on the penalty. Kimmell had testified he fired in self-defense.

The controversy between Kimmell and the Howards arose over a fence which separated their properties. The Howards contended Kimmell failed to keep an agreement to share the upkeep.

The arguments finally became so heated that on the day of the slaying, both men were said to have been armed with shotguns.

He was last seen alive Saturday morning and is believed to have suffered a heart attack while preparing to retire Saturday evening. The condition of the body indicated that he had been dead many hours. Coroner J. C. Akin of Forreston was notified and conducted an inquest over the remains, the jury returning a verdict of death to a heart attack. The deceased is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Castle and Mrs. Lorna Rowland, both of Denver, Colo. Contractor Risley expects to use his suction dredge equipment, removing sand and gravel from the bed of Rock river to form both approaches. As soon as the equipment is overhauled and moved, the work will be started and completed as quickly as possible. Three bids were submitted, those of Johnson & Cox, the Dixon Sand & Gravel company and Elliott C. Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—A theft ring specializing in costly linens and dress goods here and in New York and including three railway express employees who confessed they had been throwing goods from baggage cars was believed broken up by police today as they questioned five men held in jail.

Goods valued at $200,000 were recovered from two stores here yesterday. The magnitude of the seizure indicated, police said, that the thieves had stolen more than $1,000,000 of materials in all.

Ralph Nakutin, owner of the stores where the stolen property was found, was sought. Those held were Harry King and Jake Goldberger, both of New York; Harold Russell, Chicago; William Gray, Elgin, Ill., and Charles Armistage, Maywood, Ill., the latter three American Railway Express messengers.

Walker was kept in the hospital ward for several hours, where he lay in a numb condition, but recovered without suffering so much as a severe cold and was returned to his ward. MID-WEST UNDER BLANKET OF SNOW AS MERCURY FELL

Much Suffering is Reported in Many Larger Towns of Section

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Another cold wave, the second to sweep down from the north in 48 hours, held the middle west in its icy grip today.

Spreading suffering and death as it moved southward and eastward, the new onslaught of winter followed the course of its trail breakers, which had arrived on the Atlantic seaboard.

Continued cold weather was forecast for the middle west tonight with slightly higher temperatures Tuesday afternoon.

The frozen expanses of Saskatchewan sent the blizzard storm roaring over the Dakotas yesterday and by today it had engulfed the central states, bringing temperatures almost as low as the record breaking marks of last Friday and Saturday. A heavy snow blanketed the Rocky Mountain region.

The temperature in Chicago fell more than 20 degrees during the night, reaching a low of eight degrees above zero at 8 A. M. today.

21 Freeze To Death.
At least 21 more deaths by freezing had been added to the mounting toll in the United States and Canada, while an estimated 30 had died in accidents attributable to cold, icy streets, or snow banked roads.

Hunters in the Michigan woods suffered severe hardships and it was feared a party of nine, reported missing on a launch on the Taguamcua river near Sault Ste. Marie, had perished. The storm there had been so severe searching parties could not be sent out.

More than 20 automobiles filled with hunters were stalled by 15 foot snow drifts at Eckerman, Mich.

Relief workers toiled in cities, taking fuel and clothing to families on the point of freezing in tenements, while police stations and rescue centers were crowded with homeless men and women.

Storm Warnings Issued.
Storm warnings were sent to all points on the Great Lakes, where blizzards had been raging for days in many areas. Only a few craft braved the waves, and those without the protection of cargo insurance. Regular insurance on lake cargoes expired yesterday.

The Rocky Mountain region dug out from under the thirteenth and heaviest snowfall of the season.

The storm was general throughout Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, with snow a foot deep in some sections.

Highways leading out of Denver were blocked by huge snow drifts. Temperatures hovered near zero.

CAPITAL UNDER SNOW

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Snow which fell starting early Sunday morning and continued throughout the day had blanketed central Illinois to a depth of four and five inches today.

The snow here, measurement of which was taken on Governor L. L. Emmerson's front lawn, showed a depth of 4.8 inches. Today it had melted to a depth of 4.1 inches.

Despite the heavy snowfall there was no real delay to traffic on state roads, according to Fred Tarrant, state highway maintenance engineer. Tarrant declared roads were momentarily blocked by snow drifts at some spots but that these were cleared quickly.

"All state roads are cleared for through traffic today," he said.

Permanent Disaster Women's Relief Fund

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Eight women stood ready today to write into their records as members of the seventy-first Congress an assortment of undertakings varying from legislation setting up a permanent disaster relief fund of about $25,000,000, to a federal campaign for popularizing "self-extinguishing" matches.

Returning to the Capital by airplane and train, the feminine representatives expressed one salient desire in common: that their chapter in the world's history of women legislators should have—whatever else—an abundance of subtitles.

Florida's Ruth Bryan Owen, who will sponsor the disaster bill, said that it would have the support of the Red Cross. She will introduce it as soon as possible.

Representative Edith Norton Rogers of Massachusetts, will sponsor what she calls a safety match campaign.

"Whether legislation will be feasible I cannot say yet," she explained, "but I will do whatever is possible to prevent enormous fire losses by this simple precaution."

Long identified with the "wet" side of the prohibition question, Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California, intends to push her bill to provide financial assistance for families bereft of a livelihood through "the killing of innocent persons" by enforcement officers. Mrs. Mark K. Norton of New Jersey will try in this session to secure additional aid for war veterans, she said, particularly increased pensions.

Kentucky's Katherine Langley, Arkansas' Pearl P. Oldfield, and New York's Ruth Baker Pratt were back in their places prepared to assert themselves also in national questions.

Ruth Hanna McCormick of Illinois returned with the object toward active leadership on every possible occasion of writing for herself a record to be held up in the campaign for the Senate nomination this spring. She hopes to be the first woman seated as a regularly elected member of the Senate.

A thousand 4-H Club members—girls and boys who stand for the quadrilateral slogan of "head, heart, hand and health"—demonstrated their wares at the International Livestock Exposition, which incidentally is a show that includes all farm products besides animals.

A demure miss from Wakarusa, Ind., Mary Fredericks, won first place for the best cotton school dress, with a simple pink and white print dress that cost her $1.68.

Over on Michigan avenue the lowest priced frock—they're not dresses over there—was marked nearer $168. Mary made the dress herself and won from a host of competitors. Apparently she is not in favor of the new "longs" that are causing so much controversy in style circles because the pink and white dress came to the knees on all sides—not just in front like the ones that are paraded nightly in the foyer of the new $20,000,000 Civic Opera house, a couple of miles away.

An Oklahoma girl, Pearl White, beat out 19 other entries to win the canned fruit contest and demonstrate her potential prowess as a thrifty housewife.

As home decorator, Blanche Rose Decorah, Iowa, and Betty Higgins, Croton, Ohio, were crowned champions.

With $10.22 and "plenty of elbow grease," Blanche, who is 14, re-finished a lot of her grandparents' old furniture and in her own words "turned her drab, uninspiring room into a happy, cheerful one where I have spent many delightful hours."

Betty spent $2.97 for white curtain material and with her needle made some window drapes that were acknowledged by the judges to be the best they had seen in years of judging.

With orange berries by a strange name.
Nor does any know just when they came.

Today they are, stripped of beauty, and bare;
No clustering color anywhere.

Grand Detour Artist Won Laudable Honor

Oscar Daniel Soellner, a member of the Grand Detour colony of artists has met with favor in the acceptance of his canvas entitled "The House of Grand Detour" for the annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design, New York City.

This annual exhibition represents the nations foremost affairs in the art world, exhibiting the highest standard of art production of the year.

Mr. Soellner, while unidentified as a visiting painter to Grand Detour for a number of years, has now established himself as a resident member of the Grand Detour art colony. He portrays the characteristic spots of Grand Detour, our nearby picturesque village.

He is a true nature lover and is consistently endeavoring to know and understand nature's way which is very noticeable in his brilliant landscapes which hardly fail to embrace some historical building structure to Grand Detour.

His canvases represent a sound example of thoughtful effort to present nature in her best array of ideal graces and under aspects which enhance without exaggeration her greatest charms.

Mr. Soellner is recognized and quoted by leading art critics as one of the notable school of few painters who have found a thoroughly correct middle course between the scabrous of what was once called imaginative landscape and the crude reality which results from visual accuracy undirected by tastes, who have learned to understand the sentiment of nature and at the same time to eliminate from their work very thing which might clash with this sentiment or diminish its pictorial value.

These men work in a spirit of wholesome romanticism, being rightly what are the poetic possibilities of the subjects they prefer and expressing well controlled devices, convictions which are based upon fundamental artistic principles.

The school is modern in feeling and progressive in practice, but its modernity is wholesome, its progressiveness has no "new art" taint; it is a school which respects traditions without being enslaved by them, and yet fully in touch with the intellectual developments of the present day.

Mr. Soellner is a self-taught painter, trained in no school and developed under no guidance save that of his own intelligence, gathering his knowledge of art when and where he could. He has found in the earnestness and sterling sincerity of direct out-door painting the best model for his own practice. He has not surrendered his liberty to think for himself, and he has certainly not sacrificed his individuality. His color sense is purely his own, his instinct for choice of subject is natural to him, and even his romanticism. He looks at nature with an independent vision with a desire to understand her himself rather than with the wish to see in her only what others have already discovered.

His words have found their way in many important exhibitions and fore most galleries of America—Extracts of G. M. Hibbeler, "Copy on O. D. Soellner, the Painter."

Former Dixon Girl Sings in "Miracle" In Wisconsin City

The following first paragraphs of an article printed in the Milwaukee Journal of Nov. 10, will be of special interest to Dixon friends, when the fact is made known that Mrs. Edna Charles, former Dixon girl, and daughter of Allen Weigle of this city, sings in this vehicle, "The Miracle."

Mrs. Charles is the possessor of an exceptionally lovely mezzo-soprano voice of wide range and beautiful quality and her many friends are indeed glad she is receiving recognition in the large Wisconsin metropolis. Mrs. Charles takes the part of one of the White Nuns in the famous Morris Gest production. A bit of the article is given, which was printed in the Journal with many accompanying pictures. It is a religious song-story which at times rings the heart strings, but its appealing power for good is not to be denied.

Some of the extracts from the Journal's story follow:

"The Miracle" the music-drama spectacle production by Max Reinhardt, which Morris Gest presents at the Auditorium for three weeks, beginning Tuesday night appeals to all races and nationalities. This has been proved by its tremendous success in various countries of Europe and in eleven large cities of the United States.

A most instructive aspect of all "Miracle" productions abroad and even in America was the difference in the attitude of the theatrical wiseacre and the public toward the theme of the pantomime. The drama is based on an early Christian legend. Its presentation requires the performing of Roman Catholic rites and ceremonies.

To attempt such a thing in Protestant London, was considered stark madness by the London theatrical experts; to repeat the venture in Roman Catholic Vienna was considered sheer lunacy by wise men of the theater in the Austrian capital. But Max Reinhardt was not to be intimidated. He could not understand why, of the three great forces moving the human soul (religion, hunger and love), the noblest and most important one should be taboo in the theater.

Reinhardt is quoted as contending that if the theater is anything it is a reflex of the human soul, a mirror of human life, and as such, it should not be crippled.

"I refuse to consider," he said, "the lower instincts of the public its jealousies and fears, its prejudices and conventions. I prefer to rely on its nobler sentiments, on its higher desires." Apparently he was fully vindicated. England, Germany and Scandinavia hailed "The Miracle" just as enthusiastically as Austria or Bavaria or as Rumania.

And the Jews, who everywhere belong to the keenest theater goers, enjoyed "The Miracle" legend without any misgivings about its atmosphere. In America, Catholic and Protestant, Jew and Gentile, have made up the vast audiences that have witnessed performances of "The Miracle."

As To the Score

The score of "The Miracle" offers a curious example of music that makes a great pantomimic story possible. It is a musically piece of writing, never obtrusive but depicting each mood of the story. The story is a simple one that is unfolded very slowly and elaborately and without the music to bridge the gaps there would be no dramatic sequence. While one is unconscious of the score, it is really the music that makes the spectacle suffice without the use of the spoken word.

Engelbert Humperdinck, composer of "Hansel and Gretel" and "Koenigskinder," has used three main themes and several minor motifs to portray the various characters. One of the cleverest phases of this work is the manner in which he occasionally weaves the religious themes into the scenes of revelry, reminding us that while the nun is having her adventures the rites of the cathedral are proceeding as usual through these seven years, and that the religious duties are being performed by the Madonna.

The chorales are very beautiful yet it is probable that we shall never hear any of this Humperdinck score in a concert hall for it needs the action of the play to make it distinctive, just as much as the play needs the music.

A synopsis of "The Miracle," scene by scene, follows:

Scene 1—The Cathedral

Megildis, the Nun, bewitched by the Piper, places her vestments at the foot of the Virgin and leaves with the Knight. The Virgin descends from her pedestal and assumes the Nun's vestments and her duties. At the morning service the other nuns miss the statue of the Virgin.

Scene 2—The Knight

The Nun is taken from the Knight by the Robber Count.

Scene 3—The Count

After a drunken orgy at the Count's castle the Nun is dragged away by the Prince after he has won her in a wager.

Scene 4—The Prince

After a mock bridal procession, Megildis is to become the Prince's wife. The Emperor enters, upbraids his son and in a fight that ensues in the darkness the Emperor kills his own son.

Scene 5—The Emperor

Megildis, the former Nun, is crowned Empress against the will of the people. The mob breaks upon the scene and drags the mad Emperor and his consort to the street.

Scene 6—The Tribunal

The judges refuse to sentence the beautiful Megildis, but the mob demands her execution. As she is about to be beheaded the mob changes its mind and Megildis is carried away in the tumult.

Scene 7—The Dance of Death

Megildis, carrying her child in her arms, drags herself after the Piper and sees the procession of her victims. She wishes to join them in death but is prevented from doing so. As she stammers a childish prayer she hears the sound of bells and drags herself toward them.

Scene 8—The Cathedral

Carrying her child, Megildis returns to the cathedral where for seven years the Virgin has been carrying on her duties. The Virgin, seeing her, puts on her own vestments and becomes the Madonna again. The Nun resumes her clothes and her duties after her dead child sinks from her arms. The next day the nuns rejoice that the Madonna statue has returned.

A FARMER TO A BANKER.

In a certain small town in Iowa there lives a banker. Being a cornbelt banker, he is in spirit at least, a farmer; that is, he has the farmer's viewpoint instead of what we ordinarily consider the banker's viewpoint.

Well, this banker has a brother, who is an official in a very large and important bank in Chicago. This man, quite naturally, has the banker's viewpoint right up to the hilt. To the marrow of his bones he is a member of the financial oligarchy.

A short time ago, when the great stock market collapse left this oligarchy gasping and blinking, the Iowa banker wrote to his brother, the Chicago banker:

"What you people need," he wrote, "is to reduce by half the number of loans you have outstanding, so that those you retain will be worth more. On top of that, you must all get down to work and get your own salvation by the sweat of your brows, for nobody can help you. Industry and frugality must be your watchwords now."

This is rather strange advice to be giving to a big city banker, but the giving of it gave the Iowa man intense pleasure. Because, you see, he was merely handing back precisely that the big city bankers had given the farmers a few years ago when the whole agricultural region was seized by a depression.

That is exactly the sort of thing that Big Business—and Big Money—was unctuously telling the farmer recently. Government help? Special legislation to help the farmer? Toss! Let the farmer work out his own salvation. Let him cut down his acreage, so that total crop production will be smaller and the price per bushel will be higher. Above all, let him work and work hard, trusting to his own industry for salvation and not to any help from the outside.

That is the sort of stuff on which the farmers, driven to the wall by the post-war depression, were fed for years.

Now, however, the shoe is on the other foot. But is anyone talking of Big Business as they talked to the farmers? Not at all. The highest government officials lose no time in rushing to help. The nation rings with the trumpet calls that summon the captains of industry and finance to the barricades.

Now, however, the shoe is on the other side of the foot. All of this is perfectly natural, of course, and probably it's all perfectly proper. It is, however, rather illuminating. It helps one to understand the exact nature of the civilization in which we are living.

The dollar, if squeezed hard enough, talks louder than any group of men can possibly talk. The banker and the farmer are men from two different worlds.

THE COST OF ILLNESS.

The chief reason for the fight against illness, of course, is the mental and physical suffering that it causes. A congressional committee, however, reveals that there are urgent economic reasons as well for striving to make this a healthy nation.

The 36,000,000 wage earners of the United States lose at least 250,000,000 work days a year because of illness, according to the committee. Figure that up in terms of dollars and cents and you'll realize what an enormous bill we pay for sickness.

Apparently the country is doing everything it can, though, to remedy matters. At any rate, the committee discloses that the United States has more physicians in proportion to its population than any other country in the world. Nearly 1,500,000 people are employed in this country in connection with the care and prevention of disease.

THE OLD MEN MAKE WAR.

The death of Georges Clemenceau removes yet another of the great figures that occupied the spotlight during the World War. One by one they are passing—Wilson, Foch, Haig, and the others; in a short time all of the war-time leaders will be gone.

Which, once more, serves to remind us—that it is the old men who make war. The young men, to be sure, do the fighting, do the dying; but it is the old men who call them out and tell them where to fight and when to die.

The World War is not so very far back in history. It is a scant 11 years since the fighting ceased. Yet the leading figures are rapidly leaving us. In another decade all of them will be gone.

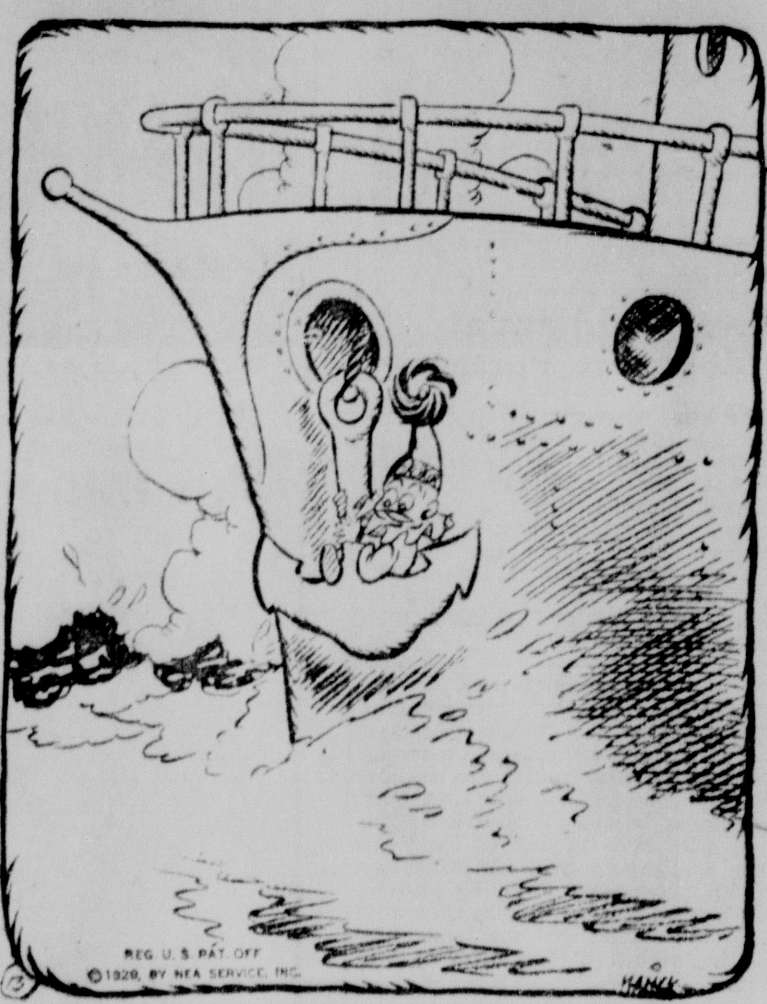

The young men do the fighting—but the old men make the war!

That extraordinary session of Congress might be called even more than that. But why be profane?

America is a country where an anti-freeze for the radiator is a serious problem, but any kind of alcohol is good enough to drink.

Poor Clowny! He was scared to death. The captain made him catch his breath and start to run like everything. It was a funny sight. The other Tinites felt sad to think the captain was so mad. Then Scouty shouted, very loudly, "Scout with all your might!"

But Clowny didn't need to be told of his plight. He knew that he was in for quite a spanking if he didn't get away. You can't imagine how it feels to have a big man at your heels who's very, very mad at you. It's mighty far from play.

The captain cried, "I'll catch you soon and then you'll sing another tune. A lad who takes my cookies cannot stay upon this ship. Out in a boat we'll turn you free and you can drift around at sea. The other little Tinites can continue on our trip."

Of course the captain didn't know that what he charged was from

MONROE DOCTRINE

One hundred and six years ago today, on Dec. 2, 1823, the annual message of the president to Congress set forth the Monroe Doctrine.

The term, the Monroe Doctrine, is applied to the policy of the United States regarding foreign interference in American affairs. It is properly considered the corollary of the Washington and Jefferson policy of neutrality toward all European affairs.

The policy is based upon two passages in President Monroe's message and has a two-fold relation—a non-colonization and a non-intervention feature.

In modern conception, it is the policy of the United States to regard any European power to gain a foothold in this hemisphere by conquest, or to acquire any new establishment

His nose cleared, he coughed less.

GRIDIRON NEWS

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The football frenzy is over for 1929 except for a few remaining flourishes in the south and far west, but the picture of a campaign of sparkling individual achievements is still vivid and the argument over championship claims yet is far from settled.

The season that was brought to an Arctic climax Saturday by Notre Dame's ninth straight triumph, at the expense of the gallant Army team, was in many respects the most remarkable in the history of the great American college sport.

The tumult and the roar from early October to the last day of November was punctuated by the famous Carnegie report on commercialism, by astounding individual performances and long-run thrills despite the new fumble rule, by record-smashing crowds, by an unprecedented epidemic of so-called "breaks" in the big games and by the development of an unusual number of high class teams.

For sheer drama, Yale and Notre Dame topped the list under circumstances of the most extraordinary variety. Trampled by Georgia early in October, the Elis came back to whip Brown, Army and Dartmouth on successive Saturdays with Albie Booth cutting capers across the historic turf of the Yale Bowl such as no one at New Haven had seen in a blue moon. On successive Saturdays Booth outplayed two of the game's greatest stars, Red Cagle of the Army and Al Marsters of Dartmouth, to become the most talked and written-about ball carrier since Red Grange, even though the "Mighty Atom" went into something of an eclipse against Princeton and Harvard.

Knute Rockne, on a sick bed most of the season as the result of an infected leg, furnished the inspiration for one of Notre Dame's greatest teams, the first unbeaten Irish array since the famous Four Horsemen dismantled in 1924.

Rockne, stricken just before the Navy game, was able to be on the sidelines for only two of the remaining six games but his boys went out and played with even greater spirit for the ailing "Rock" than they might have for a perfectly healthy coach, directing them from the bench. In the next to their last game, the star center, Tim Moynihan, broke his leg, but the team kept on winning, even though it took a "break" and a one hundred yard dash by the fastest man on the team, Jack Elder, to beat the Army. Notre Dame was among the five major teams that finished their seasons unbeaten and untied.

Purdue's mighty Boilermakers made it two votes for the state of Indiana. Pittsburgh in the east, Tulane in the south and Utah in the Rocky Mountain zone completed the big five of this group, based upon the caliber of opposition and performance over the whole course of the campaign. Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and Purdue established the strongest claims to national championship honors. No one of this trio could possibly be picked out for the main award, however, without the loudest kind of a roar from the others.

Three others in the major flight—Tennessee, Texas Christian and St. Mary's of California—showed only a single tie to mar otherwise perfect records. The "Big Three," Stanford, Southern California and Stanford, cut each other down.

Judged by the strength of their finish, Andy Kerr's powerful Colgate machine ranked with the best in the country, despite an early October setback at the hands of Wisconsin. The Maroon juggernaut smashed Columbia, Syracuse and Brown, three strong teams, on successive Saturdays by the aggregate margin of 86 to 0 with an exhibition of power unsurpassed by Pittsburgh or any other high scoring outfit.

Georgia Tech, after two years at the top in the Southern Conference, tumbled with a resounding thud, losing five games altogether and facing the loss of a sixth in meeting Georgia this Saturday. The two-year reign of Illinois in the Big Ten group was ended by the rise of Purdue, Texas Southwest champion, was dethroned. Here's how the situation may be summed up in the major areas:

East—Pittsburgh, only major team unbeaten or tied, but with Colgate also showing a clean slate against eastern opposition. Fordham, tied twice, and Davis-Elkins of West Virginia, tied once, ranked high, along with Western Maryland, unbeaten in 10 games and facing Maryland this week in the last test.

Missouri Valley—Nebraska, champion of the Big Six for the second straight year, and Drake repeating the Valley Conference.

South—Tulane with best record in Southern Conference a shade better than Tennessee, with Chattanooga repeating in the Southern I. A. A.

Southwest—Texas Christian champion of the conference after a season marked by sensational play and unusually high-class team production in this sector.

Rocky Mountain—Utah, champion of the conference for the third time in four years, acclaimed the finest team the district has yet turned out.

Pacific Coast—St. Mary's showing the best record, although outside the big conference group, tying California and trouncing Oregon, two teams which figure with Southern California and Stanford in quadruple tie for conference leadership.

IOWA'S POSITION
FOR PLACE IN BIG TEN IS PREPARED

But Whether Hawks are
To Be Reinstated
Is Uncertain

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—With the football season over and the basketball season only in the preliminary practice stage, "what will become of Iowa," is the big topic of discussion in the Big Ten.

Iowa's petition for reinstatement to compete in the Western Conference will be presented to the Faculty Committee on Athletics when the group meets in Chicago Friday and Saturday.

Out of the discussion of whether Iowa will be reinstated have grown numerous rumors. One says that Iowa will not be forgiven and taken back into the group as an athletic opponent, because athletic directors of three universities, A. A. Stagg of Chicago, Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, and George Huff of Illinois, are opposed to readmitting Iowa. But no reasons have been given why Yost, Huff and Stagg should have aligned themselves against Iowa.

Another report, also lacking substantiation, says Iowa will be returned to good standing because several other schools are equally guilty and that the whole matter will be hushed up.

The converse of this rumor says that at least three other schools will join Iowa. This report was aired at some length last June after Iowa was expelled from athletic competition, but nothing happened to any other schools.

Prof. James Paige of the University of Minnesota, chairman of a special committee to investigate the athletic conduct of other schools in the Big Ten, has announced his committee will not have a report and may not be ready to action Iowa's case. But Iowa has its petition ready and will seek to show that there are no subsidized athletics here; that a "slush" fund does not exist and that the eligibility of its athletics is bona fide, and that it has earned readmission.

Dragon flies eat mosquitoes. It is believed that San Bernardino county, Cal., with an area of 20,175 square miles, is the largest county in the United States. It is about 16 times the size of Rhode Island.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

PROTECTION OF SONG BIRDS

Several years ago there was universal complaint that the bluebird had disappeared from the land; and it was predicted that his epitaph was to be written. Then after a season of scarcity, his grateful return was heralded and today the bird is back in its old haunts and in the supply of former days. The actual circumstances which control the supply are but partly understood and science still has much to learn about the life of our song birds.

The greater number of species of song birds are far more valuable and important to civilization than many people realize. Besides bringing cheer wherever they may be, in great destroying power they possess on insect life cannot be overlooked. Every species of song bird should be protected. Winter finds them in need of food when snows are deep, and a few hands full of grain, suet or bread crumbs will go a long way towards relieving their hunger.

Many species of song birds are of the migratory family and fly south when the cold weather sets in up north, but the little winged creatures that stay with us the year around need protection and care. Why not organize a bird club among the pupils in school and form an army of crusaders to fight for the protection of our American song birds? Building bird houses, feeding birds and discouraging the use of the slingshot, air-gun and .22 caliber rifle on the cheery songsters should be a part of the by-laws of such an organization.

An excellent method to stimulate local interest in the welfare of song birds is through the medium of bird house contests. Many chapters of the Izak Walton League of America sponsor similar contests in their individual communities each year. It is a splendid program to foster during the long winter months when towards relieving their hunger.

Building bird houses, feeding birds and discouraging the use of the slingshot, air-gun and .22 caliber rifle on the cheery songsters should be a part of the by-laws of such an organization.

"Skipper Lopez Speaking"

To get color for a symphonic river selection he contemplates broadcasting in a future radio program, Vincent Lopez, spats, town trousers and all, visited an Ohio steamboat recently. While in Cincinnati he went down to the river front and boarded the stern wheeler "Chris Green." The skipper gave him plenty of river color, which consisted of blowing the whistle, turning the paddle wheel and putting the boat hands through their capers. The popular orchestra leader is shown here beside the paddle wheel.

CONGRESS WILL BE IN SESSION UNTIL SUMMER

Heavy Calendars to Face Both Houses Today At Convention

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Dec. 2.—(UP)—A substantial tax reduction for every individual and corporate taxpayer was the first business on crowded calendars as Congress convened today for a regular session which may last eight months or more.
The healthy fiscal condition of the government was outlined in a budget message prepared by President Hoover for delivery to both the Senate and the House as soon as they are ready to receive it.
Tomorrow Mr. Hoover officially will inform the Congress by his legislative message on "the state of the union" that the financial outlook is good enough to warrant lifting $160,000,000 from the tax burdens of the people.
Wednesday, his Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon will go before the House Ways and Means committee to advise how the reduction should be applied. He will recommend a straight cut of 1 per cent from everyone's tax levy which will bring the normal income tax rates from 5.3 and 1 1/2 per cent down to 4.2 and 1/2 percent, and reduce the corporation rate from 12 to 11 per cent.

To Rush Measure.
Congressional leaders have made plans to handle the matter expeditiously. It is generally expected the reduction will be made law before adjournment, Dec. 20, for the Christmas holidays.
This bold stroke of the administration is founded upon the confidence of Mr. Hoover and Secretary Mellon in the business outlook. Taxes to be received next year will not be diminished, they say. Strong tax payments mean profits are being made by corporations and individuals, the administration leaders point out. Unless they had confidence in prospective revenue they would hesitate to recommend a tax cut.
They also expect a favorable result of the move will be that $160,000,000, which otherwise would be absorbed by the government, will be turned to productive enterprise.
The congressional schedule calls for introduction of the tax cut resolution in the House today or tomorrow, and for reading of the budget message Wednesday.
The tax legislation program will be presented to the House Thursday by the Ways and Means committee, and passed there Thursday or Friday, according to Chairman Hawley.
Senate to Vote on Vire.
The first order of business in the Senate was the case of Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, whose friends spent $785,000 in a primary election three years ago. By special order the Senate must take up the Norris resolution, proposing to deny Vare a seat, Tuesday.
The Republicans do not believe they have enough votes to seat Vare, but will seek a postponement, awaiting the report of a committee which investigated the contest brought by his defeated Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.
Vare wants the delay, also, and the committee will meet today to act upon his request that the ballots of

Young Singer Wins Stardom

She is Cinderella of the music world, for Leonora Corona, above, pretty, young soprano, soon is to be lifted from comparative obscurity to fame on the opera stage. Because of the illness of Rosa Panselle, the star, Miss Corona has been chosen to sing the role of Donna Anna in a revival of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. It will be the greatest opportunity in the career of the youthful Dallas, Texas, singer, who has had only a month to prepare for the difficult role.

31 more Pennsylvania counties be counted. Such a recount would bring additional months of delay.

Vare's opponents persist in settling the case now, as they say they will, the Republican are preparing to offer a resolution declaring the seat "vacant," which will enable the Republican Pennsylvania Governor to appoint a Republican Senator to the vacancy.

Tariff Bill On Shelf
The tariff bill which caused so much furor in the special session which closed 10 days ago is on the Senate shelf. It will be brought up again when the Vare case is out of the way, and will be sidetracked only for tax reduction, the leaders say. They hope to get the tariff through the Senate by Christmas.

After acting upon tax reduction, the House is to start work immediately upon the dozen appropriation bills. Much other legislation is to come up, concerning radio, government consolidation, waterways improvements, good roads building, naval cruiser appropriations, sums for prohibition enforcement and the proposal to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller.

The Senate also is expected to consider whatever disarmament agreement is reached at the London disarmament conference next month. In view of this heavy program, the leaders do not expect to adjourn the long session before June, if then.

And—later in life—who hasn't felt a thrill as the conductor lifted his baton for the overture to begin? A moment pregnant with the glamour of the theatre! Music casts its spell throughout all the Ages of Man.
Is it wise then, in this enlightened and prosperous day to countenance substitution of a shadow of music for the real thing in the theatre?
Imagine the Irish following a Music Box on St. Patrick's Day! Or life and drum music by a Machine on Memorial Day! Incongruous? Of course, but not more so than a mechanical overture in the theatre.
Talking pictures—a new dramatic form; the radio—which transmits music directly and DOES reflect the artist's mood of the moment; the phonograph in the home—where living music usually is not available—are not at issue here. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Jezebelism" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 1.
The Golden Text was, "The idols have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they comfort in vain" (Zechariah 10:2).
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Do good, O Lord, unto those that be good, and to them that are upright in their hearts. As for such as turn aside unto their crooked ways, the Lord shall lead them forth with the workers of iniquity; but peace shall be upon Israel" (Psalm 125:4, 5).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love. Man's rights are invaded when the divine order is interfered with, and the mental trespasser incurs the divine penalty due this crime" (p. 106).

Better Service Costs Less
The numerous rate reductions made in recent years have taken a large slice off the bill for railway freight service paid by the American people. The 1928 bill was $152,000,000 less than the same amount of transportation would have cost at the average rate of 1923-24, $416,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1922 and $840,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1921.
But that does not tell the whole story. While the price of railway freight service has been going down, its quality has been going up, and the better service has saved additional money for shippers and receivers of freight.
These additional savings have come chiefly from the improved speed and dependability of railway freight service. Faster service has reduced interest charges on the value of goods in transit, and more dependable service has enabled dealers to reduce the size of their reserve stocks and thus to make savings in the cost of carrying inventories. Better service also has helped to make the flow of business more responsive to changing styles and conditions, and that has meant savings. Further savings have come from the safer handling of freight; shippers have had fewer claims for loss and damage.
The savings from lower rates, large as they are, considerably understate the total savings in the costs of business generally for which the railroads have been responsible.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

HALF BILLION REQUIRED FOR HARBORS WORK

Report Of Engineers Was Made Public Today
By War Dept.

Washington, Dec. 2.—(UP)—More than $500,000,000 of additional funds must be appropriated to complete river, harbor and flood control projects now underway in the United States, the report of the Chief of Army Engineers revealed today.

The report, compiled by Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, who retired as Chief last August, was made public by the War Department.

Jadwin estimated $55,000,000 profitably could be expended on improvement and maintenance work in the next fiscal year compared with $82,945,882 spent in the fiscal year which ended last June 30. For completion of river and harbor projects, $216,444,110 will be required, and $291,660,100 for completion of flood control projects.

Reporting on river and harbor improvements, Jadwin said:

"The number of separate authorized projects in force is 930. Included in this total are 50 canals and waterways which with their locks and dams are maintained and operated by allotments from the permanent indefinite appropriation provided by section six of the river and harbor act approved March 3, 1909; The flood control projects for the Mississippi river and its tributaries, the Missouri river at Niobrara, Neb., and Yankton, S. D. Sacramento river, Calif., and construction of dam No. 2, Muscle Shoals, Tennessee River, and operation and maintenance of the hydroelectric development of the river."

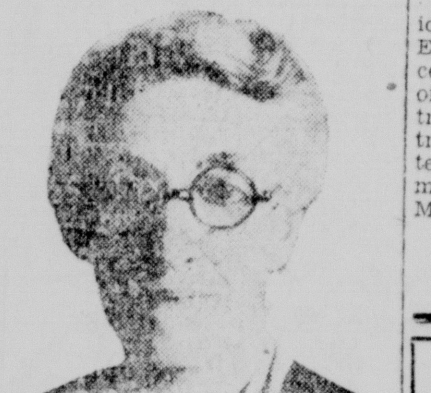

On July 1, 1929 there was an unexpended balance in the indefinite appropriation amounting to $76,599,037.

WONDERFUL, THE CHANGE GLY-CAS MADE, SHE SAYS

Had Terrible Stomach Attacks Often as 3 Times Week Before; All Misery Ended Now.

Suffering of years is often actually ended by Gly-Cas, where medicine after medicine had invariably failed to give more than a few days' temporary relief before. Of thousands of such cases there is that of Mrs. Katherine Wilfong, 18 Bell Ave., Mansfield, Ohio.

MRS. KATHERINE WILFONG.

"It is simply wonderful how Gly-Cas has changed me," states Mrs. Wilfong. "Stomach gases had caused me terribly misery. I was so dizzy and nervous, too, and dared not eat many foods for fear of awful agony afterward. Attacks from my stomach became so intense that I'd be unconscious and I tried medicine after medicine with never more than temporary relief. In fact, I was getting worse all the time until I started with Gly-Cas but now, after years of past suffering, I truthfully have good health again and such relief is wonderful to me. I eat foods now I hadn't been able to touch in years and those awful stomach attacks which used to come as often as 3 times a week, are all ended. I surely want to praise Gly-Cas to everyone who is suffering for it has done wonders in my case."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

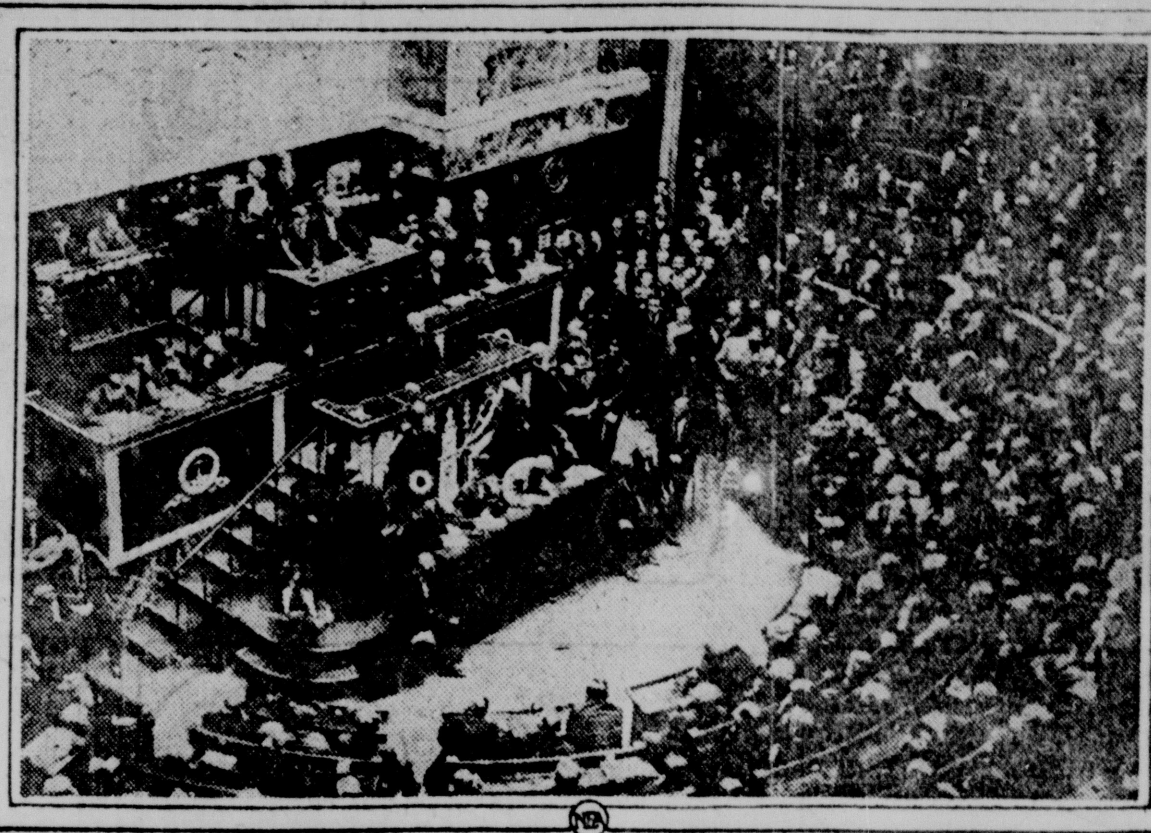

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and liver troubles.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them: 15c, 30c, 60c.

Where France Makes Laws for the Nation

This picture shows the Chamber of Deputies, scene of many dramatic events in France's history, in session at Paris. Notice the well-like appearance of the chamber, which corresponds to our Congress. When this picture was taken, M. Aristide Briand, whose 10th cabinet went down to defeat a few weeks ago, was urging support of the ministry formed by his successor, Andre Tardieu. Briand is shown on the speaker's stand.

control projects for the Mississippi system, Jadwin said diversion of excess flood waters into lowlands to relieve the main bed of the river probably would not be necessary more than once in 10 or 15 years. In the meantime he considered flood protection afforded these areas will be equal or greater than they have had under other control schemes.

"The $25,000,000 appropriated for the fiscal year 1929 for carrying out provisions of the flood control act approved May 15, 1928," he continued, "was expended or obligated during the fiscal year. The work done on the main river proved most beneficial during the spring high water of 1929. The high water proved to be the largest flood that has ever passed down the Mississippi without a serious break in the levee system. Without the expenditures that were made, there would, in all probability, have been extensive overflows. The appropriations made by congress for the fiscal year 1930 made available $30,000,000 for carrying out the flood control act."

"The program for expenditure of this sum includes levee and reventment work on the main river and work on protection levees off the main river as well as dredging and contraction works for the navigable channel."

The Federal rivers and harbors program contemplates improvement of more important rivers and harbors of the United States and the more important harbors of Porto Rico, Alaska, and the Hawaiian Islands.

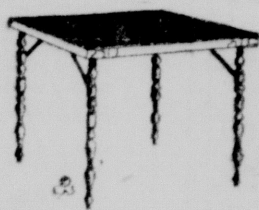

Since the report was written, President Hoover was re-organized the Engineer Corps' administrative procedure by naming regional engineer officers whose function is to decentralize river, harbor and flood control work. He also moved headquarters of the Mississippi river Commission from St. Louis to Vicksburg, Miss.

67 Golfers Enter Professional Meet

BY PAUL B. ZIMMERMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sixty-seven wanderers of the nation's fairways today will cast their hopes into the whirlpool of 36-hole medal play, troubled by the knowledge that only thirty-two will come out of the test with the privilege of entering match competition tomorrow for the national professional golf championship. The final round will be played Saturday.

To stroke the course in a par 71 will not be sufficient, if pre-tournament indications mean anything. Birdies and eagles probably will adorn the cards of those chosen few who lead the qualifying round. Any one of a dozen or more of the contenders is apt to finish with the P. G. A. crown resting on his brow, for the event has called together one of the most colorful arrays of links stars in the game.

Leo Diegel, defending champion, stands out in the group of those classified as favorites.

Walter Hagen is only slightly less popular as the choice to regain the title which he has held on five previous occasions.

No small amount of trouble is expected by the chief contenders from Horton Smith, youthful professional

Government Gets Mooney's Plea

Efforts to bring about a federal investigation of the imprisonment of Tom Mooney, labor leader sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary for alleged participation in San Francisco's famous Preparedness Day bombing, are being led by Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota. Senator Schall is pictured above as his secretary read him a letter from Mooney, pleading for a government inquiry, which has been inserted in the Congressional Record.

Nine Met Death In Eastern R. R. Wreck

Onley, Va., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Salvage crews today were removing the last of the wreckage of a train that left the rails, piling up eight coaches with a death toll of nine persons and an injured list of twenty-four. The train was bound from Cape Charles, Va., on the Pennsylvania Railroad for New York with excursionists.

Calm orders, "save women and children first," shouted by Karl F. Chenoweth, boatswain's mate, attached to the Battleship Oklahoma, probably saved scores from death in the stampede that started in an overturned third car, said A. V. Kemp of Norfolk, a survivor. Chenoweth was injured himself.

Doctors said that Mrs. Kemp was saved from death by the sailor, who tied a handkerchief above Mrs. Kemp's half severed wrist.

Five of the dead were white and four were negroes.

Movies Steal Camilla From Hubby

It wasn't another man, but the glamor of a movie career that stole Camilla Horn, above, the flaxen-haired film star, from her husband. Camilla, who is now in Berlin, has secretly brought suit for divorce from Klaus Gerra, a young merchant of Hamburg, with his full consent. "I am tired of being a husband in name only," Herr Gerra told his friends. "Camilla and I were happy until she became a famous film star. Then I saw little of her."

They'll Jump Into Matrimony

Matrimony will be a come-down for these two, for the swy's the limit at their wedding. It's perfectly natural, of course, for such proficient parachute jumpers as Marjorie Klinger and Donald Babcock, pictured above, to leap out of a plane, but this pair planned to do that after their wedding ceremony, which was to be conducted by a "sky pilot" high in the air over Roosevelt Field, Long Island. They expected to jump, open their chutes, and then "settle down"—several thousand feet. Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic aviator, was to pilot their "flying altar."

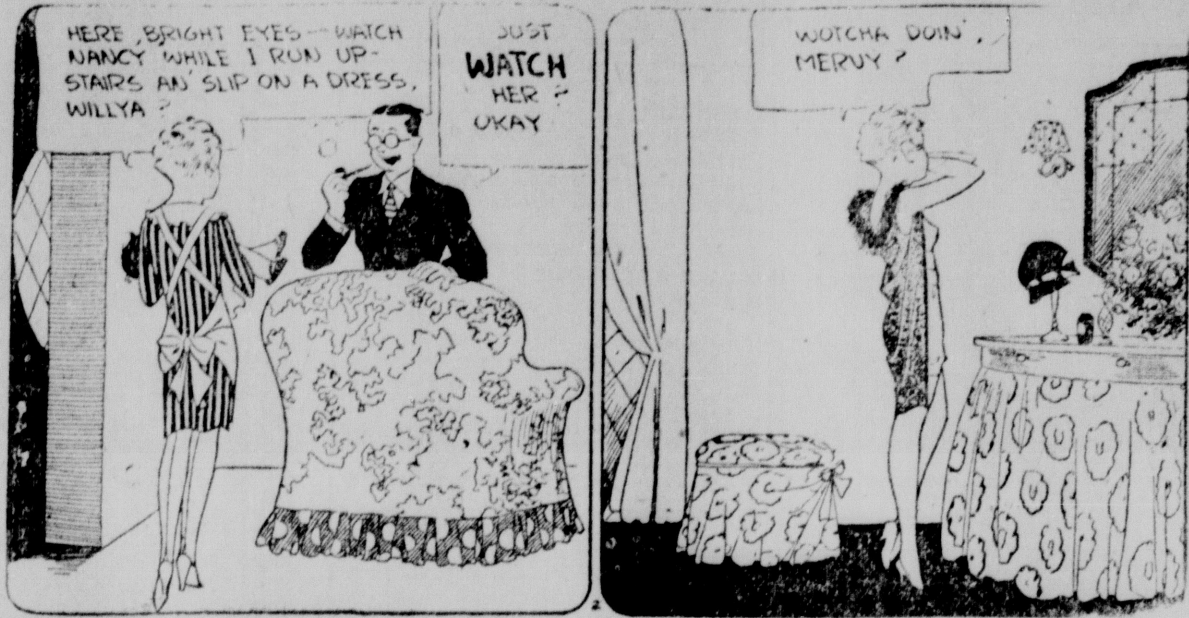

A Flighty Pair of Twins

It's probably a twin-motored plane. Anyhow, the two comely aviatrixes pictured above are 17-year-old Miami, Fla. high school twins, Ruth and Ruby Nolan. Yes, these gymn suits are their regular flying costumes—forecasting a new mode for feminine flyers in the blamy southern air.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, said to keep a monkey housed in her room on the second floor of Mrs. RHODES' boarding house, is strangled to death. RONNIE LEE, DEL. "cub" detective, assists LIEUT. STRAWN in the investigation. Police suspect EMIL SEVIER, former boarder, whom Mrs. Hogarth accused of trying to rob her and who has disappeared.

COR. BARKER, boarder and theater pianist, thought to have had an affair with Sevier is arrested as a possible link against him, but is released on bail. Other boarders under suspicion are HENRY DUNDEE, NORMA PAIGE, WALTER STYLES, near bankrupt who had previous dealings with Mrs. Hogarth; BERT MAGNUS, amateur scenario writer who is heard typing in his room, until 12:15; and DAISY SHEPHERD.

From papers secreted in Mrs. Hogarth's trunk, Dundee learns that ALLY GRAYSON, who had written Mrs. Hogarth once, mentioned in her diary is DAN. GRIFELIN, now-lawyer, a bezzler of whose return she lives in dread. Recalling the mysterious details of her murder in New York June 2, Dundee comes to the conclusion that Dundee and Magnus, new boarders, David's information about himself is false. In the basement waste-paper bags, Dundee finds an old envelope which had held a rail ticket, with David's name on it, showing he left New York June 3. In the greenhouse he finds evidence that points to Sevier's having been there the night of the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII "HELLO, folks! How's tricks?" Jewel Briggs demanded gaily as she took her place at the dinner table that evening. "Everybody happy? I am! Made $13 today! Big beauty-and-leg man from the east. Press agent for a musical show that's going to make us hicks sit up and take notice. You never saw such a flock of letters and wires, and I charged him double the usual rates without batting an eye."

"By winking an eye, you mean, don't you?" Daisy Shepherd chuckled.

"Now, Daisy!" Jewel pretended not to be angry, but just very, very hurt. "At that, he did tell me he could get me a job in the first row of the chorus, but I told him I could make more as a public stenographer, so long as nice old suckers like him stopped at the hotel. . . . Oooh, look! Our Henry is actually smiling! What's happened to you, Henry? Land your self a swell job?"

Henry Dowd cleared his throat and stuck out his chest a bit. "I was fortunate enough to make an advantageous connection—yes," he admitted.

"He means he got a job," Jewel elucidated to Bonnie Dundee, on her right. "And say, what about you, boy friend? I warn you I'm an expensive sweetie, so if you want me to be true to you, you'd better make an advantageous connection yourself."

"Don't let Jewel fuss you," Daisy advised comfortingly. "If a man walks down the street with her once she makes him stop at the jeweler's to pick out a wedding ring. But if you're really up against it for a job, Mr. Dundee, I can speak a word for you at Marcus Crane's. There might be an opening for a floor walker."

"He means he got a job," Jewel elucidated to Bonnie Dundee, on her right. "And say, what about you, boy friend? I warn you I'm an expensive sweetie, so if you want me to be true to you, you'd better make an advantageous connection yourself."

As Crews Dug Pilot and Plane From 10-Foot Grave

Here is the scene that was presented as rescue crews attempted to extricate Pilot George Cuddihy, crack navy flyer, and his little English combat plane, buried 10 feet in the ground when the ship fell 10,000 feet at Washington. Workers dug for more than a half hour before freeing the pilot's body and it was necessary to use a crane to haul out the wreckage of the plane. Cuddihy was testing the plane, which had been purchased from England, and had put it into a terrific dive when the ship broke under strain.

 ters of the Gorgas Memorial are at

There is not the slightest scientific foundation for the theory of prenatal influence as a cause of birthmarks. The origin of birth-marks is obscure. Most pathologists look upon them as developmental defects. In a small per cent of cases there is a familiar predisposition and a hereditary element. The frequent occurrence of these lesions at the nape of the neck suggests intra-uterine pressure as a factor.
 In many cases there is no ascertainable cause.

There are two kinds of birth-marks. The commonest variety is composed of vascular tissue and is called a vascular nevus or angioma.
 It may be present at birth or appear shortly after. The other type is the pigmented nevus or mole, which is less commonly present at birth.

Angiomas are divided into three varieties. The flat, reddish or purplish, irregular marks called port-wine stains may cover small or large areas of skin, and may even extend into the mucous membrane. They are slow in their development, are likely to persist throughout life and are the least amenable to treatment.
 Raised, soft, compressible, bluish-red growths, so called "strawberry" marks, vary in size from a pea to a walnut at birth, and often grow rapidly in the first weeks of life.
 They increase in size along with the rest of the body and at the end of six months may be quite large. They are commonly seen on the forehead, cheeks or scalp, but may occur anywhere on the body. When they involve the mouth, lips or tongue, they may interfere with the baby's feeding.

The third type is a deep-seated variety constituting a tumor under the skin, and is often destructive in its growth. It is called a cavernous angioma. Besides producing a great deal of deformity it may become dangerous to life.

A physician should always be consulted for advice as to what to do for birthmarks. In certain cases it is justifiable to leave them alone for six months and to watch the rate of growth. Occasionally spontaneous scarring will take place and obliterate the nevus. In certain cases repeated painting with flexible col-lodion is of value. Caustics should never be used.

Port-wine stains are best left alone, especially when they are faint in color and in an inconspicuous location. It is extremely difficult to remove a port-wine mark without undue scarring.

"Strawberry" nevi can effectively and safely be removed in one of two ways. Radium is practically a specific remedy for this type. In the hands of careful workers, surface applications of radium in tubes or flat discs will obliterate the growth after several monthly treatments.
 When properly used, radium gives better cosmetic results than any other method. The painlessness and ease of application in the case of infants are important points in its favor. The other method of treatment is by freezing with a carbon dioxide snow-pencil, which removes the nevus by a "blistering" process.

 The method is somewhat painful but never requires an anesthetic. Often a single treatment will get rid of the nevus with a hardly perceptible scar. The deep-seated or cavernous type can be dealt with only by surgical measures or by special forms of treatment.

In general, it may be said that the successful removal of birthmarks requires skill and judgement on the part of the physician, and that it should be attempted only by those who have the necessary equipment for this type of work.
